THE DIVE FROM GREATNESS

In the opening line of China's great historical romance, THE STORY OF THE THREE KINGDOMS (SAN KUO CHIH YEN-I), we read:

"Empires wax and wane; States cleave assunder and coalesce. When the rule of Chou weakened, seven contending principalities sprang up, warring together until they settled down as Ts'in, and when Ts'in's destiny had been fulfilled there arose Chu and Han to strive for mastery. And Han was the victor".

And so it is that nations and peoples, all the time, are rising into nobility and greatness for a brief while, sometimes producing a great civilization, and then going down again like spent rockets into degeneracy and oblivion.

How long it took for most of the great civilizations of the past (there have only been about 14 of them) to go down into decadence we can learn from our own history books. However one is sometimes tempted to wonder whether any of them ever went down so rapidly as civilization in Britain and America is now doing.

It seems unbelievable that this people which we see in Britain today is the people which stood with such tenacity and bravery in the Second World War, only half a century ago.

Violent crime in England and Wales is reported to now be worse than it is anywhere else in the entire world. (Daily Telegraph, April 3, 1997.)

Out of 11 industrialized countries, England and Wales top the list for burglaries, car thefts, and assaults. (Daily Telegraph, July 30, 1997. "Britain is the Car-Crime Black Spot of Europe".)

Drunkenness in British youth aged 13 to 16 is worse than in any country of Western Europe. (Evening Standard, July 17, 1997).

The total of inmates in Britain's gaols stood at 68,000 in March 1997, and is rising fast. A record figure, again a figure unequalled in any country in Western Europe in terms of proportion of population. (Daily Telegraph, July 26, 1997).

In Britain today, assault, rape, and murder, of young children, by other young children, is becoming nothing unusual. Also, women can be seized from cars in the middle of London and stuffed into a car-boot and taken off and raped or murdered.

Britain is a haven for criminals of all types, drug-barons, and terrorists, and our successive Governments have been too weak and pusillanimous to keep them out, just as they are totally unable to check the general influx of ordinary foreign individuals wanting to get in here and batten on the marvellous health and social services which we still have, on our free AIDS treatment, and so on. (So, how long do you imagine that we are going to possess such services?).

And, in common with almost all other Governments — I say almost — our Governments are patently far too scared of the Dark Forces that are the Ultimate Rulers of our world and so cannot extend proper protection to the law-abiding citizen, and dare not even exterminate even the most bestial and horrifying of criminals, all of whom have to be maintained for years in prisons at the honest citizen's expense. The gangsters and gunmen and terrorists have carte blanche to murder you and me. But you and I don't have carte blanche to protect ourselves.

With glee the Satanic Forces that rule our world watch the fast rising tides of paedophile murder, drugs, and unnatural sex. None of these things are anywhere near the level they will be at soon. Most significant of all is the latest news, a few days ago, that drugs are now getting into Britain's armed forces. Already under-manned, and having difficulty in recruiting new blood from our youth, they are finding - when they do get them - that they are no longer physically as fit and robust as our youth used to be. (This is the brave nation that, half a century ago, stood alone against Hitler and dared him to do his worst).

With regard to the effects of drugs, there have recently been alarming cases (for example in Cyprus) of civilians being battered or murdered by members of the British Armed Forces. First it was our football louts, now it is our troops. No wonder that there is so little respect for us, and that our prestige is not precisely what it used to be! Our nation were once proud to call themselves British, and proud of this little country's quite amazing heritage and its stupendous achievements, not only in the fields of art and science and invention, but also in the administration of a far-flung, global empire that stands without its like in the history of the world and for which we have every reason to be proud.

Having gone down so far and so unbelievably fast, it would be foolish for any of us to imagine that the process will be halted. It must now continue to its logical end.

Meanwhile, those few who know "what to look out for", and "what to expect" in these times that are now upon us, will perhaps be wise to take extra-careful note of the current volcanic eruption on the little island of Montserrat in the British West Indies. One might wish to disregard such an event as trivial, as a "feather in the wind", as nothing but "a tiny cloud on the horizon". However, it is not. Those who are aware of the extraordinary relationship that exists between the "inner state" of mankind and the "inner state" of his Home Planet, will perceive the very special meaning of this particular event in this particular part of the globe at this particular time. DO FLYING TRIANGLES HAVE UNDERWATER BASES?

© By Omar Fowler, Phenomena Research Association, Derby, and FSR Consultant

Readers may not generally appreciate that we are now in the throes of what is almost a 'Flying Triangle' invasion. After something of an inauspicious arrival in the State of Missouri on the 18th November 1980, The FTs are being reported in increasing numbers world-wide.

Their arrival in Missouri and Kansas in 1980 caused consternation and awe, as hundreds of witnesses, including policemen, watched a huge craft, displaying a triangular pattern of lights, move slowly over the countryside for a period of four hours. It was seen over 22 towns and at one stage the huge craft appeared to be dropping what a local truck driver described as 'satellites', which appeared to be round and emitted a bluish glow.

The whole event was tracked on radar during the four hour period and must rate as one of the most awesome sightings to date. One witness describing the FT as being "as big as a football field." This then, was a portent of what was to come!

During January 1981 a huge boomerange-shaped craft was seen over Arizona, with one witness proclaiming that the object "was bigger than several football fields!" The 'V'-shaped craft were later reported over New York State and Connecticut in March 1983. Once again the craft was described as being "as big as two football fields" and, this time, the craft flashed its lights on and off, as though trying to attract attention.

Later came the 'Belgian Flap,' when huge triangular craft visited this small country during the period 1989/90. The SOBEPS Group (Société Belge d'Etudes des Phénomènes Spatiaux), were inundated with hundreds of reports during this period. Such was the efficiency of their organisation, that at one stage the Belgian Air Force asked for their co-operation and assistance! With SOBEPS members being widespread throughout the country, they were in a far better position to spot and report 'events' in their locality than the Belgian Air Force. It seems that SOBEPS acted in a similar way to the U.K's 'Royal Observer Corps' and at one stage had two F16 interceptor fighters placed at their disposal! This resulted in the F16s intercepting the 'Flying Triangles,' although they were completely unable to match the speed and manoeuvrability of the FTs, as subsequent cockpit radar film footage showed.

On the 26th September 1993 a huge 'Flying
